From the N O. Crescent. The Games Cause.

The bigh social position of the chief actors-the immense amount of property claimed, and the ability of the counsel engaged; have given to the cause an unusual degree of interest. The evidence has been printed, and forms an occave volume of nearly nine buildred pages. The evidence contains much of the social history of Louisanna from 1794 to 1813. A large portion of it is better fitted to grace the pages of "a scandalous Caronicle" than to appear in the columns of a paper read by the families of our citizens. We shall endeavor to compress into a brief space the important points of attack and defence. In this we are assisted by the Record and the Briefs of

The Bill sets forth that Daniel Clark was intermarried with Zulane Carriere in the full of 1801 or the spring of 1802, and that of this marriage Myra Clark, now Mrs. Gaines, was the sole offspring. That the mother had been previously married to one Desgranges, who, however, had at the time a wife living, and that in consequence the second marriage was a nullity. The marriage between Daniel Clark and Zulime Carriere was entered into at Philadelphia, and was kept concealed from the most intimate friends of the parties. Mr. Clark giving as a reason his desire to have her first marringe decreed a nullity by a Judicial tribunal. It is alleged that the first husband was convicted of bigamy, and fled the country prior to ber marriage with Clark. But though she obtained a judgment against the name of Desgranges, yet Clark postponed the acknowledgment of the marriage, and never in fact did acknowledge it. On the contrary, it was reported that he was about to marry Miss Caton of Maryland, in 1807, when he was the delegate in Congress from Louisiana. Mrs. Clark went on to Philadelphia, and finding it impossible to prove her marriage, she abandoned the thought, and married Dr. Gardette, with whom she lived as his wife until his death in 1833.

This child Myra was born in 1806. Clark always provided for her, and made disposition of his property in her favor. It is declared that he made a will in 1813, in which he acknowledged his marriage and the legitimacy of his child. But this will was never seen after his death. It then denounces the conduct of the executors of the last will found.

This is the statement of the case by the complainant. The defendants, on the other hand, aver that Clark and Zulime were never married, in point of fact; that if the ceremony was ever celebrated, it was a nullity, as her first husband was alive-that so far from Desgranges being a bigamist, the record of the ecclesiastical court and the evidence it contained was conclusive of his innocence. It appears that the Vicar General caused Desgranges to be arrested on the charge-an investigation was had. The woman who was said to be his wife deposed that she had never been married to him-he swore to the same. Mrs. Clark herself swore that she did not believe the accusation. The Vicar decided that there was not evidence enough to prove the fact, postponed the further examination, and in the meantime permitted them to live together as husband and wife. They deny that Clark ever acknowledged the marriage, either by word or act. His most intimate friends never suspected it. He passed as a gay bachelor in society, addressed several ladies, was reported as engaged to Miss Caton ed and passed. he was engaged to another lady and was to have married her the year he died. The complainant may have been recognized by Clark as his natural, but never as his legitimate child. That the present owners of the property hold under a judicial sale made by order of a competent court, in good faith and withou any knowledge of the existence of any legitimate child. They plead the prescription of thirty, twenty and ten years against her as heir of Daniel Clark and assignee of her mother's share of the community property. The executors deny all fraud. Such is the substance of the pleadings.

IVANHOE BURLESQUED .- Titmarsh of London, has written a novel, as a continuation of Walter Scott's celebrated Ivanhoe. The Boston Atlas gives the following synopsis of its plot:

"Rowena is painted as a pattern lady who neglects her duties both as a wife and mistress, to discuss theology, dispense charity, and observe the holidays of the chruch. She henpecks Ivanhoe, keeps him at a distance on account of her royal birth, and loses no opportunity of twitting him with his love for Rebecca. Wamba the Jester is silenced; the castle is so intolerably dull that every body avoids it; Ivanhoe takes to sporting and drinking, and finally resolves to join Richard the Lion hearted in France. He is in close attendance upon the King at his siege of the castle of Chalus, and is left for dead in the breach when Richard is mortally wounded. The news of his death having been carried to England, Rowena marries Athelstane; and when Ivanhoe returns some years afterwards, it is to come upon an illustration of one of the most unsentimental passages in Don Juan. Smothering his vexation, Ivanhoe disguises himself, settles in York, and leads a moderately comfortable life till the death of Athelstane and Rowena; then he starts as a knight errant; and after slaughtering infidels in Prussia and Spain, rescues Rebecca at the seige of Valencia, and the scene drops upon their marriage; a few sentences indicating their future ca-

DEATH FROM DISAPPOINTMENT .- The Philadelphia Sun relates the following distressing case: A day or two since an accomplished young lady of this city, who was admired by a wide-spread circle of friends, died from the rupture of a blood vessel, induced by circumstances almost indescribably painful. It appears that a young gentleman (a widower) had been paying his addresses to her for several months, and finally the day was set apart when the nuptial ceremony was to take place. It appears, however, that the widower had promised his first wife, on her death bed, that he never would get married again; but when time had southed his feelings consequent on so painful an affliction as her death, he forget his vow, fell in love with the young lady, and went so far as to agree upon a final engagement with her. On reflection, the death of his wife and the sacred vow he had made, flashed on his memory. Accordingly, with feelings best know to himself, he wrote a letter setting forth the facts, and expressed a determination not to comply with the engagement he had made with the young lady in question. She received the missive, carefully perused it, read it over and over again; horror chilled her frame, she sudden-she burst a main blood vessel, and fell a corpse. Good SENTIMENTS .- The Jackson (Miss.) Southerner speaks a word of truth in the following paragraph : In 1790, when the seat of Government was held in der in the first degree, and sentenced to be hung. New York, certain discontented and ambitious spirits, who magnified molehills into mountains, talked strongly of dissolving the Union. When we see men pricking up their ears at every pretext likely to justify treason to their country, and gloating over whatever has a tendency to minister to a morbid appetite for civil strife and contention, we cannot help thinking that the cause assigned by the immortal Washington for the discontents of his day are equally applicable to some of our modern political Lucifers.

for only three hours after the receipt of the letter,

Some of our Whig friends in this region have scouted the idea of having the party lines drawn at the approaching conventional election; that they would not make any difference so far as they are concerned, whether the delegates are Whigs or Democrats, so they possessed the proper qualifications. Now, most assuredly the reverse of this is their secret and ultimate design; for they never have acknowledged the existence of the proper qualifications in a Democratic candidate for any office, while there could be a Whig found who was willing to be sacrificed upon the altar of "no-partyism." We have an abundance of evidence in the election and administration of General Taylor, to prove the atter falsity of the "no-party" professions of the Whig party. Let the Democracy rest assured when they hear the Whigs talk in favor of "no-pa. " men, that they do not mean what they say .- Jeffer sonville Republican.

Equivocal .- Our old friend, ex-Senator Westcott. on learning that Messrs, Clay and Houston had severally expressed their fervent desire to be immured in grave or tomb ere they might witness a dissolution of the Union, exclaimed, with his usual energy,— " May God keep me alive until I see it."- Washing-

He was no alarmist, but looking to the Union as a good institution, to be guarded against everything which threatened its perpetuity, he must say that no one who looked upon the proceedings here, and the convulsions throughout the country, could doubt the probability that a separation might follow a certain course of legislation.

Without concluding, Mr. Badger gave way to a motion to postpone the subject till to-morrow.

He hoped California would be admitted, and Territorial Governments formed for the remainder of the Territories, without the Wilmot proviso. In conclusion he said Califoun had erected a Southern platform and Webster a National one, and appealed to all to come to the rescue of the country. Mr. Casey said he was willing to leave the question where the constitution leaves it. The whole difficulty has grown out of different views, as to the constitutional power on this subject The North contended one way-the South the other. He said the Wilmot Proviso ought to be dropped altogether, even admitting, for the sake of argument, that Congress had the constitutional power to pass such an act. Affray between two Senators.

A Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, states that a difficulty arose in front of the Intelligencer Office, between Senators Borland and Foote. The latter in conversation with Borland, made a remark about "servile followers of Calhoun," which Borland construed into a personal reflection. A scuffle ensued, in which Foote was struck in the face. Borland soon became convinced of the impropriety of his course, and proffered an unconditional apology. The two Senators had been friends. It is supposed the frank and ready apology of Mr. Borland will be accepted, and he admitted to the bed-side of his friend, to shake his hand and renew their friendly relations.

TRADE WITH THE WEST .- The Hon. O. H. Smith, president of the Indianapolis and Bellefontaine railroad, and S. W. Roberts, Eeq., chief engineer of the Pennsylvania and Ohio railroad, will address our citizens on Friday evening, in Sansom street Hall, on the important and interesting subject of railway connections between this city and the west. The line connecting our city with St. Louis is now far progressed, and a full knowledge, which many have not, of the extent of the railroads at the west, now nearly completed, which would throw their trade and travel upon the Pennsylvania road the moment it is finished, would do much to advance the interest of the latter, by adding to its sub-criptions and expediting ly became raving crazy, and after living a mariac its progress .- Phil. March. BY W. C. BRYANT.

The stormy March has come at last, With wind, and cloud, and changing skies; I hear the sushing of the blast,
That through the snowy valley flies. Ah! passing few are those who speak,

Wild, strong month, in praise of thee; Yet, though thy winds are loud and bleak, Thou art a welcome mouth to me. For thou to Northern lands again,

The glad and glorious and doth bring,
And thou hast joined the gentle train,

And wear'st the gentle name of Spring.

And in thy reign of blast and storm, Smiles many a long, bright, sunny day, When the changed winds are soft an warm, And heaven puts on the blue of May.

Then sing aloud the gushing rills,
And the full springs, from frost set free,
That, brightly leaping down the hills,
Are just set out to meet the sea. The year's departing beauty hides, Of wintry storms the sullen threat; But in thy sternest frown abides,

Thou bring'st the hope of those calm skies,

And that wift time of sunny showers,

When the wide thom on earth that lies,

A look of kindly promise yet.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24, 1850. I am deeply troubled about the present state of oublic matters. Things look bad, never worse-what public matters. Things look bad, never worse-what Business is still as noisy as ever; and our hands are ready and happy is to be the end of it all, God only knows. At a distance the danger is not appreciated, here every man of sense knows the Union is in danger. The passage of the Wilmot Proviso would dissolve it as sure as tomorrow will come. But it will not pass-it cannot pass the Senate. That is now a small matter. The South insist on an adjustment of the whole subject, and many, of the recognition of slavery south of 36 with a large supply of 30. This, for one, I will not do. And again they oppose the admission of California, a most unkind step. It will be admitted, and I shall vote for it. There is yet no appearance of adjustment or reconcilintion-the Nashville Convention will go on, and be composed of the most violent men-the future is all i LEWIS CASS.

THE CALIFORNIA EMIGRATION .- At New York there are about 50 vessels up for California, of which 20 are ships. These vessels are said to be mostly laden with merchandise, lumber, &c., the number of passengers going forward in them being far less than at the same time last year. The whole number of vessels cleared in the Atlantic ports of the Union, for California, since the 1st of October, is 361, of which 48 have sailed since the 1st of Feb. Building materials in large quantities continue to be exported to California. The quantity of lumber which has been shipped thither, from Boston alone, during the last four months, exceeds ten millions of feet; of shingles, between seven and eight millions; and a considerable quantity of house and store frames, laths, joists, clap-boards. &c.

MEDICAL.

HOWE'S Shaker Sarsaparilla Compound. Prepared by Steam and put up in Quart Bottles.

THE receipe from which the SHAKER SARSAPARILLA is made, was purchased nearly a year since, (at a great expense,) from an old doctor, belonging to that peculiar sect, (the Shakers) and although it has not been made public until the present time, it has FIRST PHYSICIANS And families of Cincinnati, who have proposed FAR SUPERIOR

To any other preparation of the kind ever yet offered to the public. S. B. hason and Rifles. Guns, Pistols, &c &c.. of hisown manufacture and imported, which he offers for sale at reasonable ing of any other Sarsaparilla Compound, hence its vast supersority as to its medicinal qualities, over all other would be SARSAPARILLAS. To those at present using a Satsaparilla mixture, a single trial will convince them of the above fact.

The wonderful healing powers of this preparation are due to the nanner in which it is prepared, (namely, by steam.) as well as to he composition of the ingredients used. Its teading ingredient beingthe best imported that it is the best preparation of that inestimable root extant, and that the properties it combines as a medicine is entirely peculiar to useff; it acts as a gentle stimulant and also as an alterative—as a stimulant in exciting the action of the liver when torpid—as a mild tonic in giving strength and tone to the stomach—as a purgative in moving the bowels sufficient for the perposes of nature without exciting them to mustural action, and are GENERAL PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD,

In removing all the unhealthy humors, or impurities therein contained, and thereby invigorating the entire system, for which reason it is peculiarly efficacious in the removal and permanent cure of all dis-IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD.

Such as Scrofula, Cutaneous Emptions, Pimples, Biotches, Sore Eyes, Tetter, Seald Head, Stubborn Ulcers, Biles, all diseases resulting from the use of Mercury, &c. It is also not less beneficial in Rheumatism. All Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Lumbago, Habitual Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Acidity of the Stomach, Bilicons Diseases, Consumtion, and all Lung Diseases, when they arise from corrupt humors; and as a never failing remedy in all diseases arising from A DERANGEMENT OF THE NERVOUS

SYSTEM,
It is unparalleled; such as Swooning, Fainting. Sensations, Low Spirits, Despondency, Epilectic Fits, Palpitation of the Heart, Negralgic Affections, General Debility, &c., &c. It is found also to give great redief to females in all complaints peculiarly incident to them.

This medicine should be taken steadily according to the directions, as in that depends the benefit to be derived from its use.

Be particular in seeing that the bottles are put up in blue wrappers, with a beautiful steel plate engraving of the head of one of the sect of Shakers on the wrapper, and at the bottom of the label a fac simile of Dr. Howe's signature.

This precaution will prevent counterfeits and will guard this medicine from being injured in its reputation by unfair and dishonest means. SYSTEM,

On. Howe: Dear Sir—My son, when about six month oid, broke out with that dreadful disease. Scrofulous Sores, over the face and body; and for two years and a half I tried every means that could be suggested by my friends; I also had the asvice of six or seven of the best physicians in the country, without effecting a cure, and I almost wished the little sufferer dead, that it might be freed from its pains. During the last six months, the sores were so distressing and painful, myself and wife were up with it night and day, for weeks together, and we had given up all hope of ever raising one. At length, a friend advised us to try your Shaker Sarsaparilla. Rejuctantly I tried it, and I have reason to bless Gotf for it for, in a very short the safer to be seen. CINCINNATI, March 15, 1849. raled up the sores, so that there is scarcely even a scar to be seen. We only regret that we did not hear of, and commence using it sooner, as we are satisfied it would have saved a great deal of suffering and expense. The child is now well and hearty. We do unbestimingly consider your Shaker Sarsaparilla one of the best preparations now in use.

The best Female Medicine known. This Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is a positive, speedy and permanent cure for all complaints incident to FEMALES. Its mild alterative properties render it peculiarly applicable to the stender and delicate constitution of the female. It is unrivalted in its effect upon such diseases as Incipient Consumption, Barrenness, Leucorrhoea or Whites, Irregular Menstruation, Incontinuence of Urine, and general prostration of the system. It immediately counteracts that distressing nervousness and lassitudes occommon to the female frame, and impans an energy and buoyancy as surprising as they are grateful. We have evidence on file, which induces us strongly to recommend this medicine to married people who have not been blessed with offspring. Prelapsus Uteri, or Falling of the Womb, of five
